to gain means to an end. As a result, it is worthwhile to study the rule of law pertaining to governance and demolition in order to gain a better understanding of it.

The aspect of legal governance cannot be said to be black or white, there are lot of grey areas. The mismanagement of Penal governance is not something that is uncommon. The problem at hand is to analyse the levels of mismanagement pertaining to demolition of property and how this has affected the public with reference to the case analysis of Bulldozer Drive.

4. OBJECTIVES:

1. To trace the inception and development and the effectiveness in implementation of Penal Governance.
2. To analyse the rule of Law applicable for the demolition of properties and its violation.
3. To find out effectiveness of the rule of law and also discuss some of the cases both past and ones that are open pertaining to the same
4. To determine various arbitrary laws against minority to put them in constant threat to identity, deprived of property and depressed of livelihood.
5. To analyse the case of Bulldozer Drive in various parts of the country and analyse the areas where mismanagement of governance may have possibility occurred or selective approach of punishment.
6. To give suggestions for better implementation of Penal Governance and discuss the major case findings of Delhi Riots with respect to implementation of the laws.

5. HYPOTHESIS:

1. There exists a significant relation between the penal governance effectiveness and crime repetition.
2. There exists a relation between mismanagement of power and rules and demolition drive.
3. There has been a mismanagement of the penal governance in dealing with the case of Bulldozer Drive.

6. SCOPE OF RESEACH:

The scope of the research is with respect to the effectiveness with which the penal governance and rule of law with respect to demolition of property as a means to achieve various vendettas with reference to the case of Bulldozer Drive.

7. LIMITATIONS OF RESEARCH:

As the research is based on aspects that may involve various government parties, analysis that point towards political leader names and defaming not be included in the research.

8. METHODOLOGY:

The method to be followed is a doctrinal study that is based on literature sources. Primary data will be taken in from government-approved sources, journal articles, Books, police records, case judgments, Case studies and similar sources. Secondary sources include newspaper articles, online blogs and social media and similar ones.

9. CHAPTERIZATION SCHEME:

The research is to be split in to the following chapters:

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION

This chapter will give an outline into the basics on Penal Governance in India, the existing systems towards use of bulldozers and so on.

CHAPTER 2: RULE OF LAW BOTH IN INDIA AND ON INTERNAITONAL LEVEL

This chapter discusses the different aspects of rule of law and the case laws and various court judgements